

TYPES OF FINANCIAL AID

The student's financial aid package may be comprised of a combination of grants and scholarships, loan funding, and employment (i.e., graduate assistantship). Grants and scholarships are forms of assistance that do not have to be repaid, while loans must be repaid with interest. Please refer to the University's financial aid website to learn more about the grants and scholarships (<https://www.monmouth.edu/finaid/graduate-aid/grants-and-scholarships/>), loans (<https://www.monmouth.edu/finaid/graduate-aid/loans/>), and employment (<https://www.monmouth.edu/finaid/graduate-aid/employment/>) that are available to graduate students.
