COMMUNICATION

Aaron Furgason, Chair, Department of Communication

Communication (M.A.)

Effective communicators are in high demand, especially in the ever-changing social and digital media landscape. Whether you are interested in entering or advancing your career, Monmouth University’s 30-credit Master of Arts in Communication gives you an in-depth, inspired understanding of how information, media, and organizations intersect within our global society.

Through classes and seminars you will learn how to address real-world challenges in public relations; interactive and digital media; public service and community relations; and organizational communication. Monmouth offers two concentrations and two certificates to specialize your studies based on your career goals and interests.

You will emerge from the program with a thorough understanding of theory and methods as well as professional application skills taught by dynamic and accessible faculty members who are recognized communication scholars and practitioners.

Master’s

M.A. in Communication (Non-Thesis Track) (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/communication-ma-non-thesis-track/)

M.A. in Communication (Thesis Track) (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/communication-ma-thesis-track/)

M.A. in Communication with a Concentration in Interactive Digital Media (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/communication-ma-interactive-digital-media-concentration/)

M.A. in Communication with a Concentration in Strategic Public Relations and Social Media (Non-Thesis Track) (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/communication-ma-concentration-strategic-public-relations-social-media-non-thesis-track/)

M.A. in Communication with a Concentration in Strategic Public Relations and Social Media (Thesis Track) (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/communication-ma-concentration-strategic-public-relations-social-media-thesis-track/)

Certificates

Public Service Communication Certificate (http://catalog.monmouth.edu/graduate-catalog/wayne-d-mcmurray-humanities-social-science/communication/public-service-communication-certificate/)

Faculty

Richard Cox, Assistant Professor (Graduate Faculty). B.S., M.F.A., Virginia Commonwealth University. Research interests include creative coding, digital fabrication, open-source electronics, physical computing, play, gaming, extended reality, interactive design, immersive experience design, animation, time-based media, and collaboration.

Chad E. Dell, Associate Professor (Graduate Faculty). B.A., M.A., Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison. Primary fields are broadcasting and cultural studies. Special interests include television production and analysis, broadcast history, and media policy. Research interests focus on an analysis of the exercise of power at the intersection of broadcast industries and audiences. Faculty advisor to Alpha Epsilon Rho, the student chapter of the National Broadcasting Society.

Eleanor Novek, Professor (Graduate Faculty). B.A., Georgia State University; M.A., Ph.D., Annenberg School of Communication, University of Pennsylvania. Specialties are journalism, gender studies, research methods, and social justice research. Research interests in racial discrimination, prison issues, high school journalism, and service learning.

Michael Phillips-Anderson, Associate Professor (Graduate Faculty). B.A., George Mason University; M.A., St. John’s College; Ph.D., University of Maryland. Areas of interest include political communication, rhetoric, critical/cultural studies, and gender. Teaches Political Communication, Critical Discourse, First Year Seminar, Senior Seminar, and Introduction to Communication.

Deanna Shoemaker, Associate Professor and Graduate Program Director (Graduate Faculty). B.F.A., Webster University; M.A., Ph.D., University of Texas at Austin. Primary fields are Performance and Theater.
Courses

CO-COL  Colloquium in Communication  Credits: 1
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
Department faculty will present their areas of research and graduate courses they teach. Students network with other students, professors, and speakers from various branches of the field of communication. Graduating students present their research in this forum. This is a pass/fail course.

CO-CPE  Communication Comprehensive Exam  Credits: None
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Communication Comprehensive Exam This is a pass/fail course.

CO-501  Communication Theories for Professional Life  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): EN.RW
Introduces foundational ideas in the fields of human and mass communication and the ways scholars have developed these through research. Highlights theories that apply to public service communication(social responsibility, relationship building, etc.). Students learn to write literature review exploring recognized branch of theory.

CO-502  Research Methods for Professional Life  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Introduces commonly employed quantitative and qualitative research techniques in communication as well as research ethics. Students learn to design a research project, conduct a pilot study, and write a formal proposal. Research for the public good will be emphasized.

CO-503  Graduate Foundations in Communication  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Introduces new students to the field of communication, its history, branches and disciplines, emphasizing communication for the public good. Assists students in meeting demands of graduate study, using research resources, and understanding departmental policies. Establishes public service objectives of the program. Introduces options for final thesis or project. Students create a plan of study to guide future course and project selections.

CO-504  Principles of Public Relations  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Explores the theoretical foundations and principles that encompass the field and practice of public relations. In addition to surveying relevant public relations communication theories, students will develop core competency skills in the creation and execution of strategies and tactics that encompass comprehensive public relations campaigns.

CO-507  Organizational Communication  Credits: 3
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
The study of the role and impact of communication in contemporary organizations and a survey of contemporary organizational research. Examination of how an organization's structure, management philosophy, and internal culture impact the flow of information, productivity, and goal achievement of the organization and its members and clients. Study of the communication processes in business, medical, educational, and nonprofit organizations.

CO-508  Presentational Communication: Design and Delivery  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): TPS
A survey of the rhetorical principles that provide a basis for the production and analysis of effective oral presentation and impression management. Speech writing and delivery of persuasive presentations with a particular emphasis on presentational technologies. Preparation for a variety of public communication challenges are studied, and student presentation skills are honed in practice sessions.

CO-509  Communication, Culture, and Community  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): TPS
Fosters an understanding of community as a communication concept and explores the performance of community roles through civic engagement and democratic participation. Students will explore the nature of community, the impact of institutions in everyday life, the consequences of individual, social, and global privilege, and the role of personal responsibility in communities. Students test the possibilities and problems of contemporary forms of community through a community-based service project.

CO-510  Global Communication and Public Relations  Credits: 3
Term Offered: Fall Term
Course Type(s): None
A critical analysis of globalization and global communication theory, research, and other selected theoretical concepts as they apply to international communication, media and public relations. Global communication will be portrayed from various theoretical perspectives, and this class will examine major trends and stakeholders. Global communication will be examined from historical, cultural, economic, public policy, journalism, new technology, communication industry, and public relations perspectives. Particular emphasis will be on the growing field of scholarly literature in the area of global public relations.
CO-511 Strategic Digital Communication
Term Offered: Summer Term
Course Type(s): None
Through case study analysis, practical assignments, and examination of key public relations and marketing research studies, this seminar type class provides students with an intensive study of the strategic application of integrated digital and social communication tactics as they relate to the fields and practice of public relations and marketing. Through the strategic development of digital integrated communication plans, students will gain an increased understanding of how to engage clients and build online communities, identify influences, establish thought leadership and apply digital marketing techniques.

CO-512 Intercultural Communication and Diversity Management
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): TPS
An examination of the cultural nature of communication and the dynamics of face-to-face interaction between persons from diverse cultures and co-cultures. Examining the challenge of managing a diverse organizational workforce in a multicultural society and methods to increase organization members’ intercultural communication competence.

CO-514 Conflict Management and Negotiation
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): TPS
Theory and research on the nature, causes, and resolution of interpersonal, group, and organizational conflict. A comprehensive examination of conflict styles, techniques, and methods of resolution of conflicts. Emphasis is placed on information sharing, effective listening, problem solving, mediation, and negotiation as tools for conflict management.

CO-516 Public Relations and Fundraising for Nonprofits
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): TPS
Through case study analysis, practical assignments, and examination of key public relations theories, students will develop advanced knowledge of public relations professionals working with corporations, for-profit entities, and non-profit organizations. In addition to surveying relevant public relations communication theories, students will develop advanced competency skills required to plan and execute comprehensive public relations campaigns. Also examines the dynamics of the evolving approach to integrated marketing communication that currently dominates the field and practice of public relations.

CO-526 Advanced Public Relations Planning
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
Explores advanced theoretical foundations and principles demanded of public relations professionals working with corporations, for-profit entities, and non-profit organizations. In addition to surveying relevant public relations communication theories, students will develop advanced competency skills required to plan and execute comprehensive public relations campaigns. Also examines the dynamics of the evolving approach to integrated marketing communication that currently dominates the field and practice of public relations.

CO-527 Crisis and Issues Management
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
Advanced public relations theory and practices dealing with management of organizational crisis and issues. The process of research, analysis, planning, and implementation of crisis management will be explored. The role of the public relations professional in the development of crisis communication strategies and tactics will be examined. Control of crisis, rumor, public perception, corporate image, and reputation will be emphasized. Case studies, simulations, group exercises, and projects will be used to develop skills in crisis and issues management.

CO-540 Organizational Training and Consulting
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
A survey of adult-learning theory, needs assessment, training techniques, and evaluation as applied to communication training. Planning and implementing training programs that serve real organizational needs. The role and ethical standards of the communication professional serving as a communication specialist or counsel to an organization. The completion of a practicum project in training or development.

CO-551 Communication Management
Term Offered: Summer Term
Course Type(s): None
The study of traditional and contemporary theories of rhetoric as applied in research and analysis of political campaigns. The rhetorical creation, maintenance, application, and legitimation of symbolic power. A survey of analytic models of political communication and application of the models to case studies. The role of the political communication specialist. Practicum in political communication strategies and techniques.
CO-564  Community-Based Digital Projects  Credits: 3
Term Offered: Fall Term
Course Type(s): TPS
In this practicum course, students research alongside faculty to solve real-world challenges by understanding innovation via feasibility, desirability, and viability. Real world clients and stakeholders present project challenges to the practicum research team in briefings. The research team assesses scope, playtests prototype solutions, prepares specifications, and offers addressable implementations to clients.

CO-565  Special Event Planning and Promotion  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Many organizations use events as a public relations strategy to build and maintain relationships with key stakeholders. Through case study analysis, practical assignments, and examination of key public relations theories, this course introduces students to successful event planning and promotion. Emphasis is on creating, organizing, identifying sponsors, publicizing and implementing special events.

CO-584  Leadership Communication  Credits: 3
Course Type(s): None
The theory, research, and practice of leadership from a communication perspective. The examination of research on leadership concepts and theories in organizational, group, and public contexts is interdisciplinary in scope. Students will analyze their personal leadership styles, critique historic and contemporary models, examine and develop leadership communication skills through team projects, class exercises, and research.

CO-592  Interactive Storytelling with Data  Credits: 3
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): COPRM, CORTP, IM, TPS
Designed to introduce students to the world of data journalism and teach them to tell interactive stories using raw data. We will start from asking what is data journalism and how we find stories in the data. Students will learn how to acquire data from the web, normalize the data into databases and finally use software to tell engaging, interactive stories with collected data. Students will also learn how to collect data from traditional sources that aren't necessarily found online. Students are expected to complete a data-driven journalism project as part of the course. Also offered as a undergraduate course, CO-492. Also listed as DS-525.

CO-595  Graduate Internship in Communication  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Designed for students with less than one-year professional experience. Supervised practical work experience with media outlets, advertising and promotion agencies, public relations firms, film companies, etc. Involves cooperative efforts of departmental faculty and employers. Exposure to current and innovative techniques in research, management, and creative activities while offering practical experience. Instructor consent is required to take this course.

CO-598  Special Topics in Communication  Credits: 1-3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Subject matter varies with the interests of the students and the professor. Intensive study of such topics in communication processes as gender relations, small group communication and decision making, leadership communication, film and video criticism, telecommunication technology, and legal communication. If a prerequisite is required it will be announced in the course schedule.

CO-599  Independent Study in Communication  Credits: 3
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
Guided research in selected topics in Communication. Prior permission of the directing professor and department chair is required to take this course.

CO-691  Communication Thesis Proposal  Credits: 3
Prerequisite(s): CO-501, CO-502, and completion of nine graduate level communication credits (or approved equivalent), and permission of the faculty thesis advisor
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
A two-semester sequence of an independent research study in consultation with a faculty thesis advisor. In this first semester, the student will select an area of communication research and develop a thesis proposal. The completed ten to fifteen page proposal will include a research question or hypothesis, rationale for study, literature review, methodology, and (if applicable) approval from the Institutional Review Board for research involving human participants.

CO-692  Communication Thesis  Credits: 3
Prerequisite(s): CO-691
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
A two-semester sequence of an independent research study in consultation with a faculty thesis advisor. In the second semester, the student will complete work to execute the thesis proposal from CO-691. In consultation with the faculty thesis advisor, two additional thesis readers will be assigned. Those readers and thesis advisor comprise a faculty thesis committee. The completed thesis of no less than twenty-five pages will include: a research question or hypothesis, rational for study, literature review, methodology, results, discussion, conclusion, complete bibliography, and appropriate appendices. If a student required an IRB approval for human subjects research, this documentation must be a part of the appendices. Upon completion of the study, the student is required to defend the thesis before a faculty committee and to make a presentation in the CO-503 Graduate Foundations in Communication class.

CO-693  Communication Project Proposal  Credits: 3
Prerequisite(s): CO-501, CO-502, and completion of nine graduate level communication credits
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
A two-semester sequence of an independent professional project in consultation with a faculty project advisor. In the first semester, the student will review relevant trade and scholarly literature and conduct research leading to the development of a project proposal. The student must receive approval of the project advisor based on a demonstration of his or her pre-existing competence with media message construction.
CO-694  Communication Project  Credits: 3
Prerequisite(s): CO-693 and permission of the faculty project advisor
Term Offered: All Terms
Course Type(s): None
A two-semester sequence of an independent professional project in consultation with a faculty project advisor. In the second semester the student will complete work to execute the project proposal from CO-693. The project requires the production and execution of a professional-quality media message of significant length and value for a public service organization as well as a well-researched paper documenting and justifying the process. Upon completion of the project, the student is required to defend the project before a faculty committee and to make a presentation in CO-COL, Graduate Colloquium.

CO-695  Interactive Digital Media Thesis Project  Credits: 3
Prerequisite(s): Completion of 15 graduate level communication credits.
Term Offered: Spring Term
Course Type(s): None
Students will review relevant industry, scholarly, and market literature and conduct precedent research leading to the development of prototypes for an innovative product or service. Students will develop and implement a highly considered and designed product or service as a market-ready, functional prototype. Working with targeted stakeholders and incubation mentors, the student will create specifications and hone the project scope of the project prototype for public release. The student will develop a business plan for wider release, acceleration, or further incubation of the project after the completion of this Masters thesis course.