MU-223 Musical Cultures of the WorldCredits: 3

Course Type(s): AT, GU

Provides an introductory survey of music in selected traditions and cultures in global perspective. It explores music both as a phenomenon of sound and a phenomenon of culture. It aims to familiarize students with music sound and music structure of different peoples, to help them appreciate music in its cultural context, to guide them in listening to music on a basic analytical level, and to give them a broad global view of music as a human activity/behavior with social functions and as artistic expression. Special attention is placed on how political, economic, social, and religious factors influence musical aesthetics and notions of identity among performers and audiences—all concerns of Ethnomusicology.

MU-224 Global Popular MusicCredits: 3

Term Offered: Spring Term

Course Type(s): AT, GU

In the age of globalization and the Internet, popular music (music produced for commercial purposes and transmitted through mass media to a large audience) is an increasingly global phenomenon and can provide a unique perspective into the social, political, and economic conditions of various cultures around the world. This course introduces students to some of the popular musics from around the world through the perspective of ethnomusicology, the study of music and culture and the ways that they intersect and influence one another. Emphasis is placed on analyzing musical innovations, trends, and movements in relation to location, culture, counter-culture, and the social/geo-political climate. In doing so, this course draws upon geographical case studies of popular music (for example, Algerian Rai, K-Pop, Bollywood, Indonesian dangdut, or the Afrobeat of Fela Kuti) to view how historical, social, and political factors have influenced their development. These issues will be explored through directed reading and listening assignments, response papers, a mix tape project, and focused class presentations and discussions.

MU-227 Introducing the Beatles!Credits: 3

Term Offered: Fall Term

Course Type(s): AT, HY

This course addresses the Beatles' musical career in terms of their wide-ranging cultural and artistic influence. Particular attention will be devoted to examining their songs within the context of their composition and in terms of their place (and placement) on the band's albums. In addition to investigating their biographical lives, we will discuss the Beatles' overtly literary and textual intentions, especially their various attempts at irony, parody, and satire. This course's chronological design is arranged in order to capture the band's artistic trajectory from two-track recording and the relatively primitive Please Please Me album through the sonic heights of Revolver, Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band, The White Album, and Abbey Road. The thrust of this course is interpretive in nature, with the Beatles' songs and albums receiving considerable scrutiny in terms of their composition, production, and attendant musicianship. Developments in recording and instrument technology are germane to our understanding of the Beatles' evolving aesthetic, as is the bandmates' development as songwriters who eventually eschew issues associated with romance in order to address larger and more prescient subjects in their music such as loneliness, oppression, nostalgia, ethics, and redemption.
